"HUGO, THE PENGUIN"

MOODBOARD - ANALYSIS

One of my favorite illustrators is the children's books author Oliver Jeffers. Some of his early works are about a boy and his penguin. In my moodboard, I have chosen to put a few of his illustrations of the penguin as well as of the boy. His strokes are fine and hand drawn like, and he uses mixed media to create, and the colorization of his illustrations bring a sense of a mixture of crayons and watercolors. I wanted to bring a bit of this watercolor into my flat design, so I added some stylized strokes (watercolor) to my character.

The colors I have chosen are basic colors based on photographs of real penguins, so black and white, naturally, and yellow and orange.

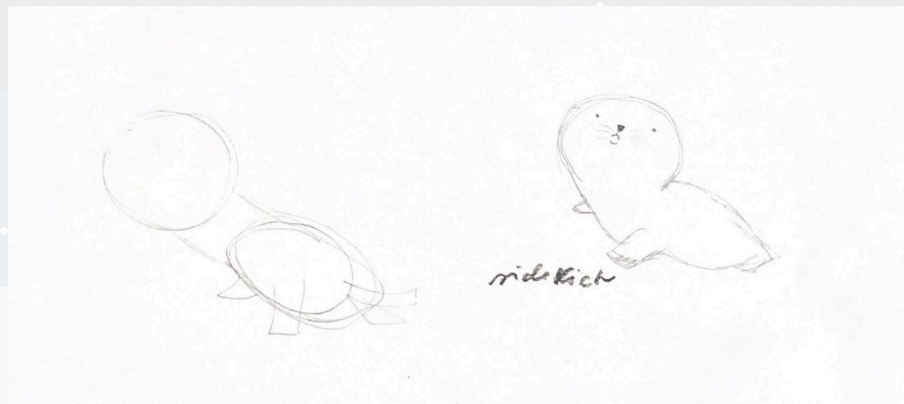

For the shape of my penguin, I have looked at how Jeffers draws his characters, with simplicity and almost childlike drawing style.

The blue, for the background illustration, is inspired by winter hues and shades.
